Expect Swift Approval Of Big Loan To China

Name Mayor Mayne Honorary Chairman

Heads Local Campaign For Funds To Aid Greek Civilians In Need Of Supplies

Mayor Charles B. Mayne was today named honorary chairman of the Greek War Relief drive which gets under way today in New Castle. The local committee is a part of the national organization of which Harold S. Vanderbilt is the chairman. In New Castle it is hoped to raise $5000 for civilian relief in Greece.

The drive has attracted nationally known men and women in its lists. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President has accepted the invitation to serve on the national committee. Others are Merlin Ayersworth, Rachel Vrothra, Clare Booth, Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, Herbert Bayard Swope, Louis Adamic, Olin Downes, Elmer Rice and scores of others.

The campaign is aimed at $10,000,000 for relief in Greece. Not a dime of the money goes for tanks or planes or other engines of war. All of it goes for food, clothing, medical supplies and other necessities. Small in population, restricted as to financial resources, Greece has amazed the world with its like-like defense of its borders. In the meantime the civilian population is in need and it is to relieve this need that the campaign is being put on.

Thirty-One Miners Died In Blast At Mine Near Cadiz, Ohio

FOUR BODIES YET TO BE RECOVERED

(International News Service)

CADIZ, Ohio, Dec. 2.—The body burned bodies of four more of the 31 miners whose lives were snuffed out when a "terrific blast tore through the nearby Neims coal mine were brought to the surface early today.

The shattered bodies of 22 others, wrapped in canvas in a pitiful attempt to shield them from curious eyes, lay in an improvised morgue which formerly was a blacksmith shop. Another body, recovered Saturday, was in a Cadiz funeral home, four miles away.

Seek Last Four Victims

Meanwhile, weary crews doggedly pressed forward through tons of earth and rock in their search for the other four victims. New caves and "bad air" as well as black damp, the deadly gas which follows mine explosions, slowed up rescue efforts in the blast-torn section 12, which is 400 feet below the surface and 2,000 feet from the main shaft.

About 150 other employees of the Ohio and Pennsylvania Coal Co. operators of the mine, fled to safety when the explosion ripped through the ill-fated section, but two full crews were trapped when the brattice collapsed.

Cadiz, which had scheduled its annual Christmas parade for today, postponed the festivities for a week as a gesture of respect and grieving for the mine victims.

While no official verdict as to the cause of the blast was forthcoming from state inspectors or company officials, John Owens, Ohio district president of the United Mine Workers, blamed the explosion on accumulated gas.

Hostilities Develop According To Report From Vichy French Government

(International News Service)

VICHY, Dec. 2.—Hostilities between Thailand (Siam) and French Indo-China are still in progress, according to reports received in Vichy from Hanoi, French Indo-Chinese capital today.

But Vichy authorities categorically denied Siamese claims that French airplanes on Saturday bombed the Siamese city of Nakonrakham and that three of the French machines were shot down.

On the contrary, French quarters stated, the Siamese air force last Thursday bombed the Indo-Chinese frontier posts of Paket and Savannakhet, causing a few casualties among Indo-Chinese residents.

On Friday, it was claimed, the Siamese created a new incident by machine-gunning a French boat on the Mekong river between Hanoi and Bangkok. Two men were reportedly killed.

For the last four days no news has been received in Vichy from M. Garreau, new French minister to Bangkok.

The Siamese minister to Vichy departed yesterday, but officially there is still no diplomatic rupture between Siam and France.

SITUATION URGED

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG. Dec. 2.—Declaring there was "something lacking" in Pennsylvania's parole system, Lt.-Gov. Samuel S. Lewis today indicated he would ask the legislature to empower the state pardons board to make an exhaustive survey of the situation.

Lewis, chairman of the four-member board, urged remedial legislation to correct the two-score year old system which he termed "outmoded."

"Naturally," Lewis asserted, "in a survey of this kind views should be obtained from committing judges, district attorneys, prison officials, social workers and prison societies, all of whom have had personal contact with one or more of the several phases of this question as it affected their duties and interests."

"A study should be made of the acts of Congress, the statutes of several states and the rules and regulations thereof as they pertain to the communications, pardons and paroles. With a view of extracting therefrom such parts as would be applicable to conditions existing in this state," he added.

Lewis emphasized that a commission so constituted, which of necessity will go out of existence at the expiration of the term of office of the several members of the present board of pardons, would make unbiased recommendations which would be devoid of any anticipated, extended or expanded authority."

He said that if the commission's recommendations would meet the approval of the new legislature, a new set up "could be created to handle adequately and properly this all important subject."

NAZI BOMBERS MAKE HEAVY AIR ATTACK

viously brought death and wide damage to Coventry, Birmingham and Liverpool.

Active Over Midlands

Operating despite clouds and heavy fog, German bombers also were active over the Midlands, southwest England, Liverpool and London.

The heaviest blows fell on the south coast center, where flares first were dropped, then incendiaries to start fires, and finally high explosive bombs. One area of the city also was machine-gunned by a single Nazi plane.

An official announcement said that up to 8 o'clock last night eight raiders had been destroyed and five British planes lost. Pilots of all five British craft were reported safe.

The air ministry communiqué said that the night attacks were concentrated mainly against southern England, where buildings were damaged by high explosives and fire and where some persons were killed and injured.

Bombs Drop on London

Full casualty reports were not yet available, but the communiqué stated that it was believed the number of casualties was not large.

Bombs were dropped on London and the home country surrounding the capital, the air ministry stated, as well as on a few points elsewhere, but latest reports indicated little damage and few casualties in these sections.

In the attack on London, single raiders flew over the city spasmodically. Anti-aircraft fire in the capital was lighter than usual. London's night air raid alarm—the city's 39th since the war began—ended shortly after midnight.

Meanwhile, a rumble of explosions from the direction of the French coast during the night led to belief that R.A.F. planes had attacked targets there. Nothing was visible, however, in the dense fog from the English shoreline.

EXPECT SWIFT APPROVAL OF LOAN

said it was significant that the loan was announced by President Roosevelt 24 hours after Japan formally recognized the rival regime of its own making, headed by Wang Ching Wei. No criticism was expected by committee members on this point.

The credit extended by the export-import bank will be used principally for the purchase of trucks, gasoline and other so-called non-military supplies. The treasury credit through its stabilization fund will probably be used for the purchase of the Yuan, giving the Chinese government the equivalent of the United States dollar for the purchase of American munitions and military planes.

"On the left wing we took positions of great value. Air activity was difficult, but our planes played havoc with Italian supply columns."

A similar picture was given by the Greek high command committee, which said:

Considerable Advance

"A considerable advance was made on the entire front."

"Positions of exceptional importance for development of operations have been captured in the Premiti region, where more than 150 prisoners were taken and much war material fell into our hands."

Reports to the Greek capital said that the Italians, fleeing in confusion across the snow, presented easy and tempting targets for Greek infantrymen, machine gunners and artillery units and that the Fascists were subjected to a deadly cross-fire.

Greek infantrymen captured still greater quantities of war material after fierce fighting on the slopes and hills commanding Pogradec, where the battle ended in what was called "rout" of the Italians. Pogradec itself was said to be in ruins.

Details regarding the Greek picture of Pogradec said a Greek patrol found the Italian defenders of the town well entrenched, with Albanian soldiers holding the front line and Italian machine-guns covering their backs.

Greek artillery bombarded the town and the defenders were gradually pushed back by Greek bayonet charges, until finally the Hellenic warriors took possession of the defenses and then the town itself.

Fortifications Taken

ATHENS, Dec. 2.—Permanent fortifications deep in Albania, installed by Italy as a guarantee against Yugoslavian invasion, were taken by crack Greek troops at bayonet point today as sweeping new successes for the Hellenic Kingdom were reported all along the battlefield.

Although hampered by a heavy snowfall, the Greeks moved forward over the entire area from the Yugoslavian border to the sea, capturing, killing or wounding large numbers of Italians.

Military authorities in Athens said the new victories signaled the first time in history that permanent fortifications of modern construction had given way to bayonet assaults.

FIVE SHIPS SEND S. O. S. REPORT SUB ATTACKS

Identified only by the radio call letters GKF, reported she was being attacked by a U-boat.

Two other vessels, one unidentified, and one which flashed a name believed to be the S. S. Victoria sent out "torpedoed" messages and pleas for immediate assistance.

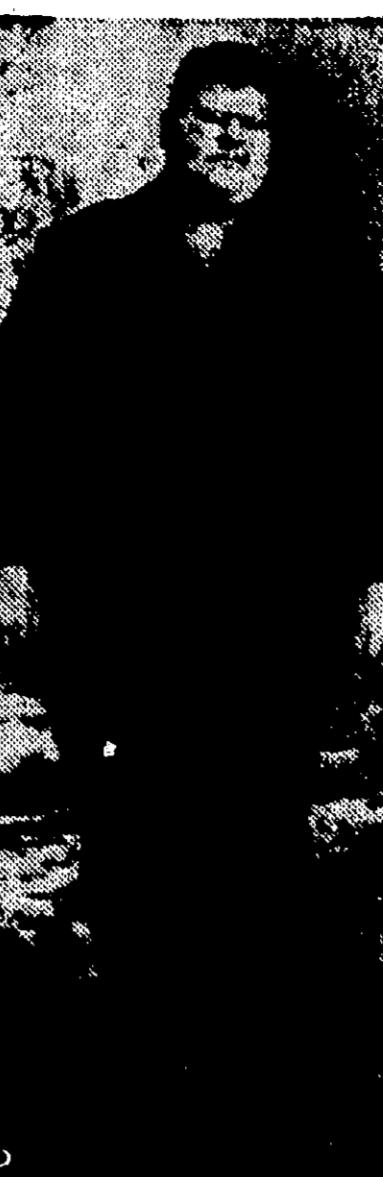

Latest S. O. S. received was from the Goodgeleigh which was attacked at 5:45 a. m. G. M. T. She gave her position as latitude 55° 02' north, longitude 18° 45' west.

The distress calls from all of the vessels covered an approximate two-hour period.

According to the U. S. Department of agriculture, the United States in 1938 imported 79,755,927 pounds of tea; in 1939, 86,131,363 pounds and during the fiscal year 1940, it has reached 102,460,401 pounds.

Mr. Roosevelt surrounded today's departure with as much mystery as prevailed when he set out on an inspection of the Panama Canal and Pacific defenses last winter. No announcement has been made of his plans, other than that he is going outside the self-imposed 12-hour rail travel limit but stood prepared to fly back to Washington if any crisis developed.

It was known, however, that the U. S. S. Tuscaloosa recently picked up presidential gear at Norfolk and headed for a Florida point, probably Miami.

The Atlantic squadron is maneuvering in the Caribbean and the Marines are preparing to maneuver at Culebra, an island about 30 miles off Puerto Rico.

IN FAIRNESS TO DRAFTES

REPORTS that approximately 20 per cent of men drawn for military service and passed by local boards have been found physically unfit after final check-up by Army physicians stationed at training camps, and have been sent back home, suggest the desirability of a change in procedure.

When men have been passed by local boards they consider themselves as virtually in the Army, and act accordingly. They give up their jobs, kiss the folks goodbye and leave home with the understanding that they may be gone for a long, long time.

Then, within a few days and through no fault of their own, they return home and face the necessity of rearranging all of their plans and trying to pick up the broken threads of their old lives. It is an embarrassing experience with some aspects of unpleasants. There is no good reason why a young man should be subjected to it.

The solution of the problem, it seems, is a simple one. Why cannot the final physical examination of a draftee take place before he has been inducted into the service, before he has surrendered his job, made the rounds of friends and neighbors to say goodbye?

This, it would seem, is the sensible and fair procedure to follow. It would relieve the young men concerned from many annoyances and particularly from the possibility of humiliation arising from the knowledge that he has been weeded out of the service.

ALL WELL, IF HE'S IN EARNEST

Notice is given to spenders that the day of free and lavish distribution of government funds is ending so far as the White House is concerned. The President should have meant no less in letting it be known that in drafting the 1941-1942 budget national defense would have first consideration and all other appropriations would be drastically cut.

The public will applaud the declared intention and will fervently hope the President firmly adheres to the line he has marked. If he does, there is no question that substantial reductions in many regular appropriations can be made.

In saying that he would not permit the national defense program to be used as a shield for unnecessary domestic projects, the President was telling the pork barrel grabbers in Congress in plain language to watch their step. But to hold this gentry within reasonable bounds the President will have to show he is in dead earnest.

FOOTBALL GOES

Comes the time of year when Saturday afternoons become relatively safe and steam-heated for countless Americans. No longer will it be necessary for old grads to demonstrate their loyalty to good old Riverview by courting frost bite, gripe and pneumonia in the refrigerated reaches of college stadia. Football, except for the various bowl encounters, has bowed out.

Saturday's heroes have again become normal young men in quest of an education. The coaching staff has unlimited time in which to think up alibis for use at alumni dinners. Surplus stocks of amica and rubbing oil have been transferred to the locker rooms of the hockey team, the basketball team and the indoor track squad. Yet, football is over for another year, leaving igloos to the Eskimos and Saturday's spectators with nothing to do except relax and thaw out.

No more bucking traffic to and from some remote stadium; no more scrambling for two on the 40-yard line which turn out to be back of the goal post; nothing more exciting than a matinee in a warm movie, a good book by the fire or a round of bridge. It's a pleasing prospect, or would you trade it all for one more sight of your favorite back grabbing a forward pass from nowhere and sprinting for the winning touchdown?

That's what we thought.

LOGAN-WALTER BILL

Designed to restrict administrative discretion through court review, the Logan-Walter bill has passed the Senate. Regarded as involving one of the most important issues before this Congress, the bill has slumbered in the Senate since it went through the House overwhelmingly last May. Pressure by the executive branch against the bill accounted for the delay.

The White House hoped to see the measure die in committee, but efforts to prevent it from coming to a Senate vote built up a counter-pressure that quickly gained strength after the recent decision by the House against adjournment.

That the bill will meet a prompt Presidential veto, after differences in the Senate and House versions have been reconciled in conference, is indicated by Majority Leader Barkley. Although the Senate last year passed the bill without dissent and then voted to reconsider, the current 27-to-25 vote makes the chances of the bill becoming law by overriding of a veto extremely slim unless a large majority of senators can be mustered in its favor.

Defeat by veto—if that should be the outcome—cannot obscure the fact that the Senate and House votes register the strong legislative distrust aroused by action of some of the many agencies that Congress itself clothed with large plenary powers. That is the ironic feature. There is no question either that the multiplication of these agencies in the manner created by Congress has given rise to a complicated and confusing body of procedure and practice, not to say a spirit of bureaucratic absolutism.

The problem arising from the development of administrative law is by no means new, but the trend of events in recent years has created an acute situation respecting the need for a better adjustment between administrative and judicially enforced law. The purpose of the Logan-Walter bill, which climaxed several years of inquiry and study, is to correct the negative tendencies manifest by providing uniform and fair methods of procedure as well as safeguarding against disregard of jurisdictional limits by bureaucrats.

Lord Lothian hints Britain is about to run out of money. Another financial game will soon be played with Uncle Sam as "It."

It is proposed to extend the relief food stamp plan to every city, thus making American grocers the greatest stamp collectors on earth.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

FLARING TEMPER IS A HINDRANCE

Now and then when I conduct forums with youths, some boy or girl will ask, seriously: "How may I control my temper?"

Always then I first compliment the questioner on realizing that an uncontrolled temper is costly. By it one may lose friends. On its account many a youth and adult denies himself success at school or at work. Many a job is lost in a temper.

Some years ago a high school lad came to me about his personal problems. He was having trouble at school. Upon investigation I found that he had ability to do school work well and possessed many valuable traits. But he would lose his temper.

The lad explained some of the situations under which his temper was aroused. He did seem to have something on his side and apparently was misunderstood, to some degree at least. Nevertheless, I tried to show him, and seemed to have some success, that in any such trying situation it was always foolish to lose one's temper.

Be Wise

Nearly every one of us has faced experiences which we were sure we were unjustly treated by a "boss." But when wise we have also learned to "take it on the chin." Let us always count the cost first, and not let our passion get the better of us. Hundreds of young people at work who read this column know very well what I am talking about.

Many a child or whole family must endure grave hardships because the father-bread-winner, in a fit of temper, lost his job. A certain young father of two little children, who drove a milk wagon, desired one day to see a baseball game. He drove his wagon outside a drug store, telephoned his boss that day. In violent rage he rammed the receiver into the hook, left the horse and wagon standing there and went to the game. It was a long while before he found another job.

Lack Of Control

Some months earlier a certain mechanic I knew, who with his two sons and daughter had held good jobs for years, in a fit of rage at his boss one day, threw down his tools, went home and made his children go along with him. During the several years since then not one of the four has found regular employment nearly so profitable as his former job.

We parents need first to control our own tempers, then bring up our children to control theirs, too. You are wondering about my answer to the enquiring youth wishing to control his temper. Here it is, in substance: "Resolve while you are not at all angry to manage yourself and hold your hands and tongue next time you are upset. When you see a vexing situation rising keep saying to yourself, 'I must watch myself!' After the trying time is past, take stock. If you find you have made even a little improvement, be happy. Then keep striving in this direction and you will enjoy gradual improvement."

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

NEW YORK — Wendell Willkie urges free and full public discussion of the grave issues facing the nation:

"The democratic process rests upon discussion. And it will only function if the channels of public discussion are kept open ... free from personal abuse and vilification."

MEXICO CITY—President Lazaro Cardenas pledges Mexico to a joint defense of the western hemisphere:

"The collective action of Pan-American countries implies no menace toward any country. All feel they must participate in the common defense without giving up their sovereignty."

NEW ORLEANS—F. L. President William Green asserts there is no justification of suggested lengthened work week, with 10,000,000 unemployed:

"I predict the day is not far distant when industrialists will be compelled to recognize the five-day, 30-hour week."

NEW YORK—Former Premier Camille Chautemps of France discusses France's future:

"I am certain France will lift herself to her old position and that America, the friend of the United States, will help to do it."

RUNAWAYS

That little fellow comes up to me, Taking my finger, all unafraid. "Bamps, go to the store!" says he. And knows that order will be obeyed.

Hardly off to the store we go, Fearful the hand of restraint may fall!

And the mother sharply will tell us "no!"

If we should be met in the outer hall,

Much like a runaway pair we flee, Nor once for breath do we think to stop

Till we purchase fruit of the sugar plum tree

At that perfectly marvelous candy shop.

His mother frowns at our wilful ways,

Pretending she's cross as cross can be.

You're just a couple of kids," she says.

"And Bamps the siller, seems to me."

HINTS AND DINTS

SHE'S MY MA

Some mothers don't get any praise.

They're just like slaves in many ways.

They rustle dirty pots and pans.

Look after children's dirty hands.

The older ones did work out doors.

And often helped out with the chores.

They baked and brewed from morn to night.

And even worked by candle light.

Their work was not from sun to sun.

For woman's work was never done.

Machines that help in homes today.

Had not been thought of yesterday.

Those hardy pioneers now old,

Endured the hardships and the cold.

And "my old woman" some were called.

By men, already getting bald.

No power machine washed dirty clothes.

She swept and clouds of dust arose.

She baked with heat from burning wood.

And yet her viands turned out good.

And now that she is old and gray,

I wish I know some word to say.

That would proclaim her virtues all.

And picture her in some grand hall.

For she's my "ma."

A State college professor tells how to buy a farm. Buying a farm is easy enough if one can get the money or a mortgage, but working a farm is where the rub comes in.

When men are called to army service we find out that there are a lot of physical defects.

Men find that out who always thought there was nothing wrong with them.

Nearly all of the best good times people have earned by work.

Remember the old taunting phrase "Did you ever get left?" You'd be surprised to know how often.

"You have convinced me that I should have the new refrigerator," said the prospect. "There is only one thing that now stands in the way."

"It's certain it can be removed," broke in the hopeful salesman.

"What is the one thing?"

"The longness of the price is too far for the shortness of my purse," replied the prospect.

A heavy smoker uses several pipes, so he can rest one that gets hot. If only a fellow could accumulate a few spare throats.

Congressman Martin Dies' committee on investigation of un-American activities throughout the United States isn't overly popular with Chief J. Edgar Hoover's Federal Bureau of Investigation is no secret in Washington. In strict confidence some state department officials also leak the information that they, too, regard Dies' revelations as a pest, from their standpoint.

It isn't that either the F.B.I. or the state department objects to having the Texas congressman and his associated committeemen and assistants dig up all available facts relating to German, Italian, Japanese and other propaganda and espionage operations in this country. Contrariwise, the F.B.I. is appreciative of tips along these lines. Chief Hoover's preference, however, is to have such tips turned

IN FAIRNESS TO DRAFTEES

REPORTS that approximately 20 per cent of men drawn for military service and passed by local boards have been found physically unfit after final check-up by Army physicians stationed at training camps, and have been sent back home, suggest the desirability of a change in procedure.

When men have been passed by local boards they consider themselves as virtually in the Army, and act accordingly. They give up their jobs, kiss the folks goodbye and leave home with the understanding that they may be gone for a long, long time.

Then, within a few days and through no fault of their own, they return home and face the necessity of rearranging all of their plans and trying to pick up the broken threads of their old lives. It is an embarrassing experience with some aspects of unpleasantness. There is no good reason why a young man should be subjected to it.

The solution of the problem, it seems, is a simple one. Why cannot the final physical examination of a draftee take place before he has been inducted into the service, before he has surrendered his job, made the rounds of friends and neighbors to say goodbye?

This, it would seem, is the sensible and fair procedure to follow. It would relieve the young men concerned from many annoyances and particularly from the possibility of humiliation arising from the knowledge that he has been weeded out of the service.

ALL WELL, IF HE'S IN EARNEST

Notice is given to spenders that the day of free and lavish distribution of government funds is ending so far as the White House is concerned. The President should have meant no less in letting it be known that in drafting the 1941-1942 budget national defense would have first consideration and all other appropriations would be drastically cut.

The public will applaud the declared intention and will fervently hope the President firmly adheres to the line he has marked. If he does, there is no question that substantial reductions in many regular appropriations can be made.

In saying that he would not permit the national defense program to be used as a shield for unnecessary domestic projects, the President was telling the pork barrel grabbers in Congress in plain language to watch their step. But to hold this gentry within reasonable bounds the President will have to show he is in dead earnest.

FOOTBALL GOES

Comes the time of year when Saturday afternoons become relatively safe and steam-heated for countless Americans. No longer will it be necessary for old grads to demonstrate their loyalty to good old Riverview by courting frost bite, gripe and pneumonia in the refrigerated reaches of college stadia. Football, except for the various bowl encounters, has bowed out.

Saturday's heroes have again become normal young men in quest of an education. The coaching staff has unlimited time in which to think up alibis for use at alumni dinners. Surplus stocks of amica and rubbing oil have been transferred to the locker rooms of the hockey team, the basketball team and the indoor track squad. Yes, football is over for another year, leaving igloo to the Eskimos and Saturday spectators with nothing to do except relax and thaw out.

No more bucking traffic to and from some remote stadium; no more scrambling for two on the 40-yard line which turn out to be back of the goal post; nothing more exciting than a matinee in a warm movie, a good book by the fire or a round of bridge. It's a pleasing prospect, or would you trade it all for one more sight of your favorite back grabbing a forward pass from nowhere and sprinting for the winning touchdown?

That's what we thought.

LOGAN-WALTER BILL

Designed to restrict administrative discretion through court review, the Logan-Walter bill has passed the Senate. Regarded as involving one of the most important issues before this Congress, the bill has slumbered in the Senate since it went through the House overwhelmingly last May. Pressure by the executive branch against the bill accounted for the delay.

The White House hoped to see the measure die in committee, but efforts to prevent it from coming to a Senate vote built up a counter-pressure that quickly gained strength after the recent decision by the House against adjournment.

That the bill will meet a prompt Presidential veto, after differences in the Senate and House versions have been reconciled in conference, is indicated by Majority Leader Barkley. Although the Senate last year passed the bill without dissent and then voted to reconsider, the current 27-to-25 vote makes the chances of the bill becoming law by overriding of veto extremely slim unless a large majority of absences can be mustered in its favor.

Defeat by veto—if that should be the outcome—cannot obscure the fact that the Senate and House votes register the strong legislative distrust aroused by action of some of the many agencies that Congress itself clothed with large plenary powers. That is the ironic feature. There is no question either that the multiplication of these agencies in the manner created by Congress has given rise to a complicated and confusing body of procedure and practice, not to say a spirit of bureaucratic absolutism.

The problem arising from the development of administrative law is by no means new, but the trend of events in recent years has created an acute situation respecting the need for a better adjustment between administrative and judicially enforced law. The purpose of the Logan-Walter bill, which climaxed several years of inquiry and study, is to correct the negative tendencies manifest by providing uniform and fair methods of procedure as well as safeguarding against disregard of jurisdictional limits by bureaucrats.

The Parent Problem

By Gerry C. Myers, Ph. D.

FLARING TEMPER IS A HANDICAP

Now and then when I conduct forums with youths, some boy or girl will ask, seriously: "How may I control my temper?"

Always then I first compliment the questioner on realizing that an uncontrolled temper is costly. By it one may lose friends. On its account many a youth and adult denies him self success at school or at work. Many a job is lost in a temper.

Some years ago a high school lad came to me about his personal problems. He was having trouble at school. Upon investigation I found that he had ability to do school work well and possessed many valuable traits. But he would lose his temper.

The lad explained some of the situations under which his temper was aroused. He did seem to have something on his side and apparently was misunderstood, to some degree at least. Nevertheless, I tried to show him, and seemed to have some success, that in any such trying situation it was always foolish to lose one's temper.

He Wise

Nearly every one of us has faced experiences when we were sure we were unjustly treated by a "boss." But when wise we have also learned to hold our tongues. We must learn "to take it on the chin." Let us always count the cost first, and not let our passion get the better of us.

Hundreds of young people at work who read this column know very well what I am talking about.

Many a child or 'whole' family must endure grave hardships because the father-bread-winner, in a fit of temper, lost his job. A certain young father of two little children, who drove a milk wagon, desired one day to see a baseball game. He drove his wagon outside a drug store, telephoned his boss but was denied permission to go that day. In violent rage he rammed the receiver into the hook, left the horse and wagon standing there and went to the game. It was a long while before he found another job.

Lack Of Control

Some months earlier a certain mechanic I knew, who with his two sons and daughter had held good jobs for years, in a fit of rage at his boss one day, threw down his tools, went home and made his children go along with him. During the several years since then not one of the four has found regular employment nearly so profitable as his former job.

You are wondering about my answer to the enquiring youth wishing to control his temper. Here it is, in substance: "Resolve while you are not at all angry to manage yourself and hold your hands and tongue next time you are upset. When you see a vexing situation rising keep saying to yourself, 'I must watch myself.' After the trying time is past, take stock. If you find you have made even a little improvement, be happy. Then keep striving in this direction and you will enjoy gradual improvement."

AND NOW ILL TELL ONE. In New York where people live in apartment houses, there is no chance to raise flowers. Because of this and because the florists ask high prices for their wares, and also because the New Yorkers are really lovers of flowers, a large number of men and women sell flowers on all prominent streets and corners. Curiously, their best prospects are men and the experienced hawker seems possessed of the gift of knowing which young man in the crowd is on his way to see his sweetheart and which man should bring home a bouquet to appear an angry wife. But like all humans, these hawkers are not infallible, so when one of them seeing what he thought was a good prospect called, "Here you are, sir, nice bouquet for your sweetheart." The man not in the best humor, barked: "I haven't got a sweetheart." whereas the wiley hawker tried with: "Then bring home this nice bouquet of roses to your wife." The man, still in bad humor, paled long enough to snap: "I'm not married!" The hawker gathered up an armful of flowers. "Boss," he said, "buy the whole darned lot and celebrate your good luck."

Answering some officials who believe reprisals from the move might be taken against American investments in the two dictator nations, the treasury secretary is to have said that they were under the equivalent of being frozen and most likely would be confiscated or subject to forced sale in event of an Axis victory in the war.

Members of the German embassy withdrew most of their funds from a Washington bank several weeks ago when they were "tipped" that the freezing order would be taken then. It was also reported that many Germans have transferred their bank accounts, stocks and bonds to "dummy" accounts under American names.

The Germans, it's said, have proceeded on the assumption that boldness, in a fashion, was secretive. That is to say, their thesis has been that they could be so brassy that nobody would believe it.

ITALIAN LESS BOLD

The Italians, by nature, aren't so intensive or so efficient. Anyway, they're not so distinctly on the pan as the Germans are.

Russian Communism originally was more talked about in the United States than either Nazi-ism or Fascism. That doubtless was because it got an earlier start in Europe than either of the other two. Years before Duce Mussolini and Fuehrer Hitler were invented, Communism was under investigation by Washington's lawmakers.

Congressman Ham Fish probed the subject so far back that I've forgotten the date. He said that American Communists ought to be quarantined on an island. I asked him, "Why an island?" "Oh, I've no especial brief," he said, "for an island, except that it would be convenient. Quarantined on the mainland, they'd be coozing out everlasting." "But why not kill 'em?" I queried. "Why, that would be brutal," Ham exclaimed. "If a man has a violently contagious disease, like smallpox, you have to quarantine him, but you don't kill him."

Communism still is a live subject, but Nazi-ism is more so. Fascism is a bit less emphasized.

People used to believe that the perfection of the Stradivarius violin was due to the varnish used. This is not true. have been among the most effective of all Administration propaganda.

Also they have been in the hands of the more advanced of the radical wing of the Administration supporters.

It is natural that these should want to make the entertainment and welfare end of the defense program primarily a WPA project; but it is natural, too, that that idea should not be relished by the volunteer organizations which did the whole entertainment job—and did it extremely well—last time.

THE army-navy officials say there is neither prospect of permitting nor purpose to permit the WPA and NYA to monopolize the social life of the cantonments. And they repeat that the volunteer organizations are indispensable and will have all they can do. There is no doubt of the sincerity of the men who make these statements. Nevertheless the fact remains that the WPA and NYA are already establishing themselves; that the volunteer organizations are to function "outside" the reservation; that there seems an excellent chance that these Government agencies will have the inside track so far as cantonment social life is concerned.

IT is said at the War Department that the heads of the volunteer organizations fully know the situation and are entirely satisfied. Perhaps that is so, and perhaps there is still room for serious objection. But that there is a strong Administration desire to have the WPA and NYA handle the recreation activities of army and navy is beyond dispute. Some administration members are privately known to have said so. It may be that the army and navy authorities will effectively block this game—and that will be gratifying. Nevertheless there is a good deal of concern about it.

High Command Orders Executions Due To Reverse Suffered At Hands Of Greeks

(International News Service)

LONDON, Dec. 2—A series of executions are being carried out among Italian officers and troops as a result of the disorderly retreat in Greece, the London Evening Standard said today.

Quoting the Athens newspaper Acropolis, the Standard said the "victims included many officers." It was assumed the executions had been ordered by the Italian high command.

From Lake Ochrida all the way to the sea, the Standard said, the Italians are abandoning "position after position." They have suffered heavy casualties and left behind vast quantities of war material.

Two thousand Italian soldiers were reported to have deserted into Yugoslavia, taking 30 heavy guns, 70 trucks and tanks, mortars and machine guns.

Even newly-arrived Italian reinforcements are fleeing in disorder or surrendering immediately after coming into contact with the Greeks the standard said.

Fellow Citizen

The advertisement reproduced on this page appeared over the signature of Harold S. Vandenberg, Honorary Chairman, Greek War Relief Association, Inc.

It tells the story so poignantly that nothing we might add could possibly elaborate upon the need of the Greek Civilian Population.

Our land and our people are practically the only ones to whom the Greeks can look for help. And this is an appeal for help — your help. Not for guns or planes or tanks, but for milk and food and clothing and shelter for the aged, the women, and little children in the Greek Civilian Population.

Don't let it be too little or too late

You, fellow citizens, who have thrived to the courageous resistance of the Greeks against the totalitarian invaders, can do your part to uphold the courage of those behind the lines in this hour of need, that the flame of liberty, in the Providence of Almighty God, shall not be extinguished, but shall instead burn the more brightly in a darkening world.

GREECE! DON'T LET IT BE "TOO LITTLE TOO LATE"

Don't — we beg you — let it be the same old story — "TOO LITTLE HELP — TOO LATE!" Don't let Greek heroism blind us to the fact that Greek civilians and children behind the lines need help — food, clothing, bomb shelters, medical supplies and equipment. Don't let Greek courage smokescreen the fact that Greek cities — from the immortal Parthenon to peasant hut, are being ruthlessly bombed, women and children blown to bits. Don't let the colossal problem of civilian care and relief become a millstone around the neck of fighting Greeks.

This may be a turning point of the war! Don't let it be "TOO LITTLE HELP — TOO LATE." Be now with dollars — the help that doesn't have to wait for factories or production lines. Greece can use tomorrow the help you send today.

Walter-Logan Bill Amendments Will Get House Approval

Measure To Go To White House For Probable Presidential Veto

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The house is slated to approve senate amendments to the Walter-Logan administration court review bill today and send it to the White House for a probable veto, providing that a majority of members is present to enable the lower chamber to do business.

Scored of members rolled into the city by train in response to calls from Democratic and Republican leaders to prepare for the battle in which the New Deal is vitally interested.

The Walter-Logan bill, acclaimed by sponsors as a measure to force bureaucrats to observe the law and by foes as a plan to hamstring the New Deal, has passed both senate and house. It was reported to the house for approval of senate amendments. Administration leaders expect President Roosevelt to veto the measure.

Accepting major principles of the measure, the senate exempted all national defense agencies from its provisions and clarified the bill in many respects. Rep. Sumners (D) Tex., chairman of the house judiciary committee, Rep. Walter (D) Pa., co-author of the measure, and other members cooperated with senators in framing senate amendments.

Sponsors of the measure proposed acceptance of amendments, not only because they approved them, but to prevent the bill from being throttled in conference.

Claims Iron Guard

Revenge Purges Are Now Under Control

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST, Dec. 2.—Amid official declarations that the Rumanian Iron Guard revenge purges have been brought under control, Premier-Dictator General Ion Antonescu and King Michael today were scheduled to review a parade of German troops, now stationed in Rumania, to celebrate the Balkan kingdom's recent adhesion to the axis.

The Nazi military demonstration, which will include a flight review of the air force, is regarded in Rumanian political circles as an indication that Germany is backing the Antonescu government in the suppression of the Iron Guard extremists.

At a meeting of 100,000 Iron Guard adherents yesterday in the old city of Alba-Iulia, General Antonescu and Horia Sima, leader of the Guards, warned that further terrorist acts would be relentlessly punished, and called on the Iron Guards to give rigid obedience to the government.

Asked whether Japan's action would affect the American position in China, Welles referred correspondents to his declaration of March 30.

That statement, which made it clear the U. S. government wants no part of Wang and will continue to recognize only the Chinese republic, said:

"East of Gallabat, parties of the enemy were once more successfully engaged by our artillery."

U. S. Attitude Unchanged On Nanking Government

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles today made it clear that the attitude of the United States toward the Wang government at Nanking has not been changed by Japan's recognition of that puppet regime.

Asked whether Japan's action would affect the American position in China, Welles referred correspondents to his declaration of March 30.

That statement, which made it clear the U. S. government wants no part of Wang and will continue to recognize only the Chinese republic, said:

"The attitude of the United States toward the use of armed force as an instrument of national policy is well known. Its attitude and position with regard to various aspects of the situation in the far east have been made clear on numerous occasions. That attitude and position remained unchanged."

Fred Girard Collapses Enroute To Army-Navy Game, Word Received Here States

Word has been received here of the death of Fred Girard of the Penn Hotel, Neshannock avenue, which occurred in St. David's Suburban hospital at Philadelphia, on Thursday. He was employed as a drug salesman.

Girard left here with Robert H. Hatch, on Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving Day with friends in Philadelphia, and had intended to remain for the game Saturday. He collapsed with a heart attack while walking from the St. David's station on the outskirts of Philadelphia to the home of a friend and died a short time later in the hospital.

He came here from Connellsville, where his mother and several sisters and brothers reside. Funeral services are being held in Connellsville, today.

Home reports say the Italians are using Missouri mules descended from the ones used in the first World War. You can't fool us: a stork brought them.

Walter-Logan Bill Amendments Will Get House Approval

Measure To Go To White House For Probable Presidential Veto

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The house is slated to approve senate amendments to the Walter-Logan administration court review bill today and send it to the White House for a probable veto, providing that a majority of members is present to enable the lower chamber to do business.

Scores of members rolled into the city by train in response to calls from Democratic and Republican leaders to prepare for the battle in which the New Deal is vitally interested.

The Walter-Logan bill, acclaimed by sponsors as a measure to force bureaucrats to observe the law and by foes as a plan to hamstring the New Deal, has passed both senate and house. It was reported to the house for approval of senate amendments. Administration leaders expect President Roosevelt to veto the measure.

Accepting major principles of the measure, the senate exempted all national defense agencies from its provisions and clarified the bill in many respects. Rep. Sumners (D) Tex., chairman of the house judiciary committee, Rep. Walter (D) Pa., co-author of the measure, and other members cooperated with senators in framing senate amendments.

Sponsors of the measure proposed acceptance of amendments, not only because they approved them, but to prevent the bill from being throttled in conference.

Elks Conduct Lodge Of Sorrow

Memorial Services Are Held At Elks Home On Sunday Evening

The memories of 12 fraternal brothers who died during the past year were honored by New Castle Elks and their families and friends Sunday evening at the lodge's annual memorial exercises in the Elks home.

C. W. Herman Hess, long a leader in local and district Elks affairs and a past district deputy grand exalted ruler in this section, made the memorial address on "Lest We Forget."

Exalted Ruler Wilbert J. Chapman and fellow lodge officers occupied their official chairs throughout the ceremonies. They directed the opening and closing rituals.

James A. Bowman was soloist, with Miss Letta Mae Johns as his accompanist. He sang "The Trumpeter" and "Because I Walk With Thee." The Emery orchestra played.

Claims Iron Guard Revenge Purges Are Now Under Control

(International News Service) BUCHAREST, Dec. 2.—Amid official declarations that the Rumanian Iron Guard revenge purges have been brought under control, Premier-Dictator General Ion Antonescu and King Michael today were scheduled to review a parade of German troops, now stationed in Rumania, to celebrate the Balkan kingdom's recent adhesion to the axis.

The Nazi military demonstration, which will include a flight review of the air force, is regarded in Rumanian political circles as an indication that Germany is backing the Antonescu government in the suppression of the Iron Guard extremists.

At a meeting of 100,000 Iron Guard adherents yesterday in the old city of Alba-Iulia, General Antonescu and Maria Sima, leader of the Guards, warned that further terrorist acts would be relentlessly punished, and called on the Iron Guards to give rigid obedience to the government.

A sore throat is a warning signal. The body gives us warning signals in a variety of ways, and if only we will pay attention to them and employ the proper measures, we can avoid a great many sicknesses or check diseases before they reach a serious stage.

We are in the sore throat season now, and a sore throat in a child or an adult, should always be regarded as a symptom of acute infection. The first thing to do is for the sufferer to go to bed. Relaxation and rest are the first weapons to use in building up resistance to oncoming infection. A sore throat is commonly the beginning of an ordinary cold, although it is often caused by digestive disorders, but there is always the danger that it is the first stage of something as serious as scarlet fever or diphtheria.

When I am called to the phone to prescribe for a child with sore throat, I make a point of going to attend the child in person. I think I may have saved a few lives by doing this, for I found numerous cases of sore throat verging on dangerous ailments, and I was able to attend to them before they reached the crucial stage. If by using a tongue-depressor or tea-spoon handle you have confirmed that your child has an inflamed throat, I advise you to consult a physician without delay.

In the meantime, an inflamed throat can be given relief by heat, and by that I mean hot drinks. Hot lemonade is good, so is hot tea, milk or anything else hot that the patient desires. As you apply heat within it is a good idea to apply cold—cold compresses placed on the neck, for example.

I'm not convinced that gargling does a great deal of good, though sometimes a hot salt or soda gargle seems to give some relief. But don't gargle too much, for you may irritate the already irritated membranes. In order for a gargle to have any effect on an infected throat, it is necessary for the sufferer to throw his head far back and allow the fluid to flow back as far as it can go without being swallowed. This can be painful and may be injurious.

It is also wise to be careful about throat swabbing. In fact, if any swabbing needs to be done, I would leave it to a doctor or experienced nurse. Some one who is inexpert at it can do a lot of harm, for the membranes and spread the infection. I'm inclined to believe swabbing should be avoided in nearly all cases, whether child or adult.

The use of tobacco should be stopped, of course, while the adult's throat is sore. Rest of the throat, and of the body as whole, is very desirable and necessary.

Lorraine Becomes

(International News Service)

SAARBRUECKEN, Dec. 2.—Formal incorporation of the French province of Lorraine into Germany was announced by Joseph Buerckel, governor of the Saar region.

Buerckel announced Lorraine has combined with the Saar Palatinate and henceforth will be known as Estmark.

(Editors Note: Germany recently expelled several hundred thousand French inhabitants of Lorraine, offering them the choice of migrating to Poland or returning to France.
It was intended to evict all the French inhabitants of Lorraine, but vigorous protests from the Vichy government and great indignation on the part of the French people reportedly prompted Germany to suspend the expulsions.)

The counties where deer are located will be like the second battle of the Argonne today. Every country in the state has probably had a rush comparable to Lawrence county and the rush here for licenses has had the county treasurer's office on the hop. Saturday morning the office was jammed until noon.
Apparently residents of other states are planning on taking out a lot of deer. The stock of non-resident licenses was exhausted last week but the calls continued on Saturday. In this county alone,
435 licenses were issued to hunters from other states.

On Saturday morning there were calls for non-resident licenses. Moreover, the supply was exhausted, so was Beaver's, Butler's and Armstrong counties. A call to Indiana county located four of the coveted licenses and three Ohio men started for Indiana to get them.

Lawrence county has issued about 2200 resident licenses, most of them from this county. If every hunter in the state today gets a deer the

we will then dash about on tired feet and desperate speed.

The stock will have been handled and picked over.

We will not be satisfied with all our purchases made in haste.

We will be fagged out for the holidays.

Let us shop now and get the most joy out of Christmas.

Authority To Dismiss
Married School Teachers
Expected To Be Sought

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—Amendment of the state teachers' tenure act today loomed as one of the major tasks facing the 1941 legislature to set up reasonable regulations.

"We want to make it permissible but not mandatory on school boards to dismiss married teachers," Van Ness said.

Van Ness said his organization would also introduce a bill to amend the Tenure act so that teachers remaining on a suspended list for three years shall be regarded as permanently dismissed. Suspended teachers now remain on the suspended list indefinitely.

A measure will also be sponsored seeking to clarify the 1938 amendments which have to do with the retirement of teachers upon reaching a certain age. Under the 1938 amendments, teachers may be retired now when they reach the age of 68, in 1941 when they reach 66, and in 1945 when they reach 62.

Seek Law Change

The biggest fight was expected to arise over the forthcoming attempt to amend the law to permit the dismissal of married teachers.
This has been a hot issue ever since the passage of the Tenure act in 1937.

Authority To Dismiss Married School Teachers Expected To Be Sought

By RAYMOND WILCOX
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—Amendment of the state teachers' tenure act today loomed as one of the major tasks facing the 1941 legislature which convenes on January 7.

Various bills designed to amend the 1937 act, often termed the teachers' "Magna Charta," because it insures them security of tenure, are ready for introduction in both houses and others now are being drawn up.

Business meeting.
Benediction will be pronounced by Rev. W. J. Engle.

Officers are: Paul Wallace, president; Frank Hofmeister, vice president; Mrs. Charles Henderson, secretary; Guy Fullerton, treasurer.

Lorraine Becomes Part Of Germany

(International News Service)

SAARBRUECKEN, Dec. 2.—Formal incorporation of the French province of Lorraine into Germany was announced by Joseph Buerckel, governor of the Saar region.

Buerckel announced Lorraine has combined with the Saar Palatinate and henceforth will be known as Estmark.

(Editors Note: Germany recently expelled several hundred thousand French inhabitants of Lorraine, offering them the choice of migrating to Poland or returning to France. It was intended to expel all the French inhabitants of Lorraine, but vigorous protests from the Vichy government and great indignation on the part of the French people reportedly prompted Germany to suspend the expulsions.)

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Here's a dandy plan—let's start Christmas shopping now.

The stock of holiday goods is fresh and new.

The stores are not crowded and we can take our time.

We are not in a rush, our nerves are quiet, clerks are helpful.

With leisure, we shop with better discrimination and taste.

One's mental poise is less disturbed when shopping now.

There will be the usual confused scramble during the last days.

We will then dash about on tired feet and with desperate speed.

The stock will have been handled and picked over.

We will not be satisfied with all our purchases made in haste.

We will be fagged out for the holidays.

Let us shop now and get the most joy out of Christmas.

P. O. Van Ness, executive secretary of the School Directors Association, explained that the school boards would seek to amend section 404 of the school code which gives school directors the authority to set up reasonable regulations.

"We want to make it permissible but not mandatory on school boards to dismiss married teachers," Van Ness said.

Van Ness said his organization would also introduce a bill to amend the Tenure act so that teachers remaining on a suspended list for three years shall be regarded as permanently dismissed. Suspended teachers now remain on the suspended list indefinitely.

A measure will also be sponsored seeking to clarify the 1938 amendments which have to do with the retirement of teachers upon reaching a certain age. Under the 1938 amendments, teachers may be retired now when they reach the age of 60, in 1941 when they reach 60, in 1945 when they reach 64 and in 1947 when they reach 62.

"Apparently, through an oversight, the legislature failed to make any provision for the years 1943-45," said Van Ness.

The 1938 amendments did not affect the original state retirement law which permits teachers to retire voluntarily any time between the ages of 62 and 70.

Pitt Physicists Make Many Contributions To Science

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 2—No longer can the physicist be pictured as an absentminded scientist putting around in his laboratory with unknown forces. Instead he is an active, alert worker who is not only solving many practical problems but from the knowledge gained thereby he can create new theories as well as new materials.

How can an engineer building a bridge be sure that some of his steel girders do not have blowholes in them? How can a metallurgist analyze the molten metal in his furnace in a few minutes so that he can make changes in its composition, if necessary, before the furnace is tapped? How can you "tag" an element so that you could definitely identify it later whether it be in a piece of steel, in an oil well, or in a guinea pig? The modern physicist can answer these and numberless other similar questions.

The physics department at the University of Pittsburgh, headed by Dr. E. Hutchinson, is making a special effort to develop those fields of research which are useful in our industrial community. To satisfy the demand for more information, particularly of the more fundamental phenomena involved, a "Physics of Metals" laboratory under Dr. C. S. Smith has been established to study such phenomena as the electronic structure of metals and alloys, creep, internal friction and the mechanism of solid state reactions. In the X-ray laboratory under Dr. S. S. Sidhu, metal castings are tested for defects, complex compounds are identified by their crystal structures, and apparatus for radiotherapy is tested. In the spectroscopic laboratory directed by Dr. Mary E. Warga, new methods are being developed for checking rapidly the chemical specifications on certain alloys and for obtaining "bird's-eye view" analyses of faulty materials, particularly alloys, to locate the cause of the faults. The work of Dr. A. G. Worthington on the radiation of energy from heated tungsten filaments is internationally known. Dr. W. N. St. Peter in the field of op-

Good Response To Christmas Seal Campaign

Returns For First Week Of Sale Compare Favorably With Last Year

Returns for the first week of the 1940 Christmas Seal Campaign are favorable compared with the same period last year, according to Andrew Dodds, chairman of the sale for the Lawrence County Tuberculosis society.

Results cannot be judged accurately by the first week," Mr. Dodds stated, "but we are only being human when we want the returns to equal if not surpass, the previous record."

Christmas Seals cost the poor child one penny. No one can pay more for a seal. The cost to a well-to-do is a penny too. The rich man realizes he must buy in greater quantity to do his share and so the returns are built up.

Mr. Dodds is pleased with the prompt response to the seal sale appeal and he said today, "We are extremely grateful to those early buyers. We hope others will respond with equal enthusiasm and help us in making this community Christmas Seal-conscious in order to better protect all homes from tuberculosis."

Basketball Season For High School To Begin Tuesday

Ellwood Goes To Kittanning
For First Preliminary Game;
Two Teams Named

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 2.—The preliminary season for the Ellwood City high school basketball squad will begin tomorrow night when Coach Jerry Newton takes his charges to Kittanning.

A week later, Tuesday, December 10, Kittanning will play here and the remainder of the pre-league games include: Dec. 12, at Farrell; Dec. 17, Sharpville, here; Dec. 20, Youngstown East, here; and Dec. 27, at Sharpville. During the league half, Ellwood will begin a new basketball series with Duquesne high, playing there on January 14, and here on February 7.

With only three "first ten" players back from last year, Newton has temporarily named two teams, which will alternate during the sectional games. The first team is composed of Hough and Daubenspeck, forwards; Vitkovich, center; and Dan and McKim, guards, and the other, Fresco and DiBiagio, forwards; Matlocks, center, and Seitch and Matrangoli, guards. Matlocks, Seitch and Matrangoli, all football players, too, are the holdovers from last year.

Seal Sales Will Aid Program

Will Further X-ray Examination Program In City And Rural Schools

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 2.—Proceeds of the annual anti-tuberculosis Christmas seal campaign will be used to further the X-ray examination program among Ellwood City and rural school districts, Charles Z. Bell, chairman of the local campaign stated today.

We have X-rayed chests of hundreds of boys and girls during the past year and we hope to raise enough money this year from the campaign to carry on a bigger and more efficient campaign to eradicate tuberculosis from our community and nation, Mr. Bell said.

Few people realize the number of tuberculosis cases in homes in Ellwood City and its immediate surroundings. Miss Lorena Thompson, the special tuberculosis nurse hired by the local Tuberculosis Association to combat the disease here, reported that 50 some cases of tuberculosis are under nursing supervision and isolation in their homes.

Christmas seals are the backbone of carrying on this campaign and without everyone in the community contributing their dollar or buying as many seals as possible, our progress of reducing the disease will not be able to continue at the rapid pace that has been set in the past few years.

Every citizen in this community should purchase seals and protect his own family, relatives and friends from contacting the dreadful disease.

COLTS NEED TRAINING WHEN THEY ARE YOUNG

The training of a colt should begin at an early age. Foals that are handled and halterbroken when young take the presence of man as a matter of course and are easily approached in the pasture and stall.

The first lesson may consist of fitting a leather or web halter on the foal. The next day, tie the colt in the stall with its mother for a half hour or so. Watch to see that it does not injure itself in any way. This lesson should be repeated until the colt stands quietly; then it is ready for leading. If no helper is available, start leading the colt with its mother. Make the lesson short. No progress can be made with a colt that is tired or sulky. Two lessons a day may be given.

When the colt is not in motion, teach it to stand squarely on its legs with head up. Select a spot where its front feet will be a little higher than its hind feet. Don't expect a colt to learn everything in one or two lessons. After it walks well at the halter, teach it to trot. Failure to halter, brush and handle the feet and legs of foals when young may cause trouble later. Outdoor exercise is essential to proper development and health. Foals should have daily outdoor exercise in winter as well as summer or spring.

At five to six months of age, the foal should be weaned. Foals should not be allowed to run with older horses during the first winter because of poor chances at available feed and chances of injury. Liberal feeding at this time is essential, since the foal makes its greatest development the first year of its life. "A stunted or starved foal the first year means a stunted horse." Liberal feeding and liberal exercise are essential.

The horse is naturally an outdoor animal. Its ills begin with close quarters, poor feeding, and lack of exercise. Successful horse raising means to make conditions as natural as possible.

The feet of the foal require care as it is often necessary to trim the hoofs to keep feet even and level, and thus relieve strain of uneven growth. Following the first year the foal that has been fed and handled to best advantage can be carried on more roughage and pasture and less grain. Grain will be required only during the winter months if good pasture and good roughage are available.

PENN STATE RUNS TESTS ON BONE MEAL FOR COWS

Differences in the results between bone-meal and no-bone-meal rations were small and not consistent enough to indicate any particular advantage from feeding supplemental bone meal. The Pennsylvania State college agricultural experiment station concludes from tests on dairy cattle.

The average dairy production of milk for the lactations on bone meal was exactly the same as that when no bone meal was fed. When the first 200 days of the lactation periods are considered, the daily production on the bone-meal ration was only a half-pound higher.

Approximately half of the cows produced more on the basal ration and about half produced more on the bone-meal ration. The data obtained on the weight and health of calves and on the number of services necessary for conception are slightly favorable to bone meal.

Cows on test were fed corn silage and a good grade of timothy hay as roughage during the winter feeding season and were all grazed during the summer on pastures treated with mineral fertilizers.

Results obtained lead to the conclusion that the ordinary Pennsylvania dairyman, unless he has unusually high producers, or poor roughage, does not need to add bone meal to the dairy ration, since cows on this experiment producing up to 12,000 pounds of 4 per cent fat-corrected milk did not appear to be benefited materially by the feeding of supplemental bone meal.

PITTSBURGH LIVESTOCK SHOW

More than $500 in prizes will be distributed to 4-H club members.

Future Farmers of America and vocational agriculture students in western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia at the 1940 Pittsburgh Livestock Show, according to an announcement from show headquarters. The cash prizes will be awarded in addition to ribbons in the junior division of the show, which includes classes for individual steer or heifer, in two weight classifications, individual lamb, pen of three lambs and individual fat barrow.

Over and above prizes listed in the show premium list, cash prizes will be awarded by the breed associations for Hereford, Angus and Shorthorn entries, including $10 for champion steer in each breed. Other breed prizes will vary according to the number of entries.

A special award will be given to the junior exhibitor displaying the best showmanship in this year's show.

In the adult division, the show includes classes for individual steer or heifer; lot of three steers or heifers; fat cattle, carload minimum of 15; and feeder cattle, minimum of 15; pens of ten and twenty-five lambs and pens of three fat barrows. No cash awards will be made in the adult division, but ribbons will be awarded to those placing highest.

No entry fee is charged for the Pittsburgh show. Exhibitors will pay only the regular commission, yardage and feed charges, collected on all live stock marketed through the Pittsburgh yards. All animals exhibited will be sold at auction on Wednesday, December 11.

Twelve 4-H Club members from Lawrence County expect to participate in this show.

CORRECT SIZE HOSIERY NEED ED FOR GOOD SERVICE

This is a quiz—a men and women, boys and girls are asking questions. Among the leading questions are those women ask about hosiery—why stockings run, and why they wear out at the heels and toes.

In an attempt to make the average woman's hosiery shopping easier, Miss Julie Marke, home economics extension representative, Lawrence County, answers some of the most puzzling questions.

Q. Why do heels of hose slip down under the foot?

A. The size of the stocking may be too small. The heel cups of the stocking may be too small.

Q. Why do toes poke through?

A. The size of the hose may be too small. A wide foot may require a larger size than the length of shoe would indicate. Be sure the toe of the stocking is well-reinforced. Rough, long nails will cut through the toes of the stockings.

Q. What can I do to prevent heels from wearing out?

A. Sometimes the lining of the shoe is rough or loose. Examine the top edge of the back of the shoe. A heel lining may help to keep the shoe from sliding or hold the edge away from the stocking. Rub cold cream on calloused spots if they are causing the hose to wear.

Q. Why do stockings break at the instep?

A. This may be due to too small a foot size.

Q. What is the most frequent cause of runs?

A. Catching the hose on chairs, fingernails, jewelry or wearing garments fastened too tight or below the garter reinforcement.

Q. Are there any hose that will not run or catch?

A. There are run-proof hose, but any fabric will catch. Run-proof hose will not run, but broken thread

COLTS NEED TRAINING WHEN THEY ARE YOUNG

The training of a colt should begin at an early age. Foals that are handled and halter-broken when young take the presence of a man as a matter of course and are easily approached in the pasture and stall.

The first lesson may consist of fitting a leather or web halter on the foal. The next day, tie the colt in the stall with its mother for a half hour or so. Watch to see that it does not injure itself in any way. This lesson should be repeated until the colt stands quietly; then it is ready for leading. If no helper is available, start leading the colt with its mother. Make the lesson short. No progress can be made with a colt that is tired or sulky. Two lessons a day may be given.

When the colt is not in motion, teach it to stand squarely on its legs with head up. Select a spot where its front feet will be a little higher than its hind feet. Don't expect a colt to learn everything in one or two lessons. After it walks well at the halter, teach it to trot. Failure to halter brush and handle the feet and legs of foals when young may cause trouble later. Outdoor exercise is essential to proper development and health. Foals should have daily outdoor exercise in winter as well as summer or spring.

At five to six months of age, the foal should be weaned. Foals should not be allowed to run with older horses during the first winter because of poor chances at available feed and chances of injury. Liberal feeding at this time is essential, since the foal makes its greatest development the first year of its life. "A stunted or starved foal the first year means a stunted horse." Liberal feeding and liberal exercise are essentials.

The horse is naturally an outdoor animal. Its ills begin with close quarters, poor feeding, and lack of exercise. Successful horse raising means to make conditions as natural as possible.

The feet of the foal require care as it is often necessary to trim the hoofs to keep feet even and level, and thus relieve strain of uneven growth. Following the first year the foal that has been fed and handled to best advantage can be carried on more roughage and pasture and less grain. Grain will be required only during the winter months if good pasture and good roughage are available.

PENN STATE RUNS TESTS ON BONE MEAL FOR COWS

Differences in the results between bone-meal and no-bone-meal rations were small and not consistent enough to indicate any particular advantage from feeding supplemental bone meal, the Pennsylvania State college agricultural experiment station concludes from tests on dairy cattle.

The average dairy production of milk for the lactations on bone meal was exactly the same as that when no bone meal was fed. When the first 200 days of the lactation periods are considered, the daily production on the bone-meal ration was only a half-pound higher.

Approximately half of the cows produced more on the basal ration and about half produced more on the bone-meal ration. The data obtained on the weight and health of calves and on the number of services necessary for conception are slightly favorable to bone meal.

Cows on test were fed corn silage and a good grade of timothy hay as roughage during the winter feeding season and were all grazed during the summer on pastures treated with mineral fertilizers.

Results obtained lead to the conclusion that the ordinary Pennsylvania dairyman, unless he has unusually high producers, or poor roughage, does not need to add bone meal to the dairy ration, since cows on this experiment producing up to 12,000 pounds of 4 per cent fat-corrected milk did not appear to be benefited materially by the feeding of supplemental bone meal.

Twelve 4-H Lamb Club members from Lawrence County expect to participate in this show.

CORRECT SIZE HOSIERY NEED ED FOR GOOD SERVICE

This is a quiz age—men and women boys and girls are asking questions. Among the leading questions are those women ask about hosiery—why stockings run, and why they wear out at the heels and toes.

In an attempt to make the average woman's hosiery shopping easier, Miss Julie Marke, home economics extension representative, Lawrence County, answers some of the most puzzling questions.

Q. Why do heels of hose slip down under the foot?

A. The size of the stocking may be too small or the heel cups of the stocking may be too small.

Q. Why do toes poke through?

A. The size of hose may be too small. A wide foot may require a larger size than the length of shoe would indicate. Be sure the toe of the stocking is well-reinforced. Rough, long nails will cut through the toes of the stockings.

Q. What can I do to prevent heels from wearing out?

A. Sometimes the lining of the shoe is rough or loose. Examine the top edge of the back of the shoe. A heel lining may help to keep the shoe from sliding or hold the edge away from the stocking. Rub cold cream on calloused spots that are causing the hose to wear.

Q. Why do stockings break at the instep?

A. This may be due to too small a foot size.

Q. What is the most frequent cause of runs?

A. Catching the hose on chairs, fingernails, jewelry or wearing garments fastened too tight or below the garter reinforcement.

Q. Are there any hose that will not run or catch?

A. There are run-proof hose, but any fabric will catch. Run-proof hose will not run, but broken thread will make a hole. Run-proof hose has a small mesh-like pattern, which does not show as such when worn. These hoses come in very sheer and heavier weights. There also are hoses in larger mesh.

Q. Are stockings actually knit in different lengths?

A. Yes, in three lengths: short, 26 inches; medium 30 to 32 inches and long, 34 inches. Cheap stockings are stretched to different lengths but will not retain their strength after washing.

Other hosiery questions will be answered in a later news article.

Teacher's Tenure Act Amendment Being Proposed

Would Provide For Supervision Of Hearings By Referees Or Commissioners

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 2.—A proposal to amend the state teachers tenure act to provide for the supervision of school board hearings by referees or commissioners appointed by the state department of public instruction today is receiving serious consideration in educational circles.

The proposal has been advanced in state educational quarters and is being considered also by school directors and teachers organizations.

Under the proposed plan the department of public instruction would employ education referees or commissioners whose sole duty would be to hear testimony in appeal cases involving the dismissal, demotion or suspension of teachers.

Such a procedure would be similar to that now employed by several other state agencies, among them the Public Utility Commission and the department of labor and industry.

It would tend, say its advocates, to eliminate the present type of hearings in which the school board acts as judge, jury and prosecutor. It would save the school boards considerable expense, it was said, and not appreciably increase the cost to the state.

Nebraska May Meet Stanford In Rose Bowl

Minnesota Cannot Accept Bowl Bid Tennessee To Battle Boston College

FORDHAM ACCEPTS COTTON BOWL BID

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The only post-season football game bringing together two major undefeated and untied teams will be played at New Orleans on New Year's day when Tennessee and Boston college tangle up in the Sugar Bowl. Both have finished their schedules with perfect records to establish themselves among the super-starwarts of a year which has been a half dozen or more teams playing along briskly for a while, only to falter finally.

One of the few other survivors is Stanford, which will pit its record of nine straight against Nebraska, beaten only by Minnesota, when the opening whistle is tooted in Pasadena's Rose Bowl. Minnesota also wound-up without having been overtaken but can't enter into post-season competition due to Big Ten regulations.

Mississippi state will send a once-tied team into Miami's Orange Bowl to meet an opponent yet to be selected, while once-beaten Fordham will take on a once-beaten survivor of the Southwestern conference in the Dallas Cotton Bowl. Texas A. and M. has run through the slate with one defeat, and is the chief contender to face the Rams, although Southern Methodist and Rice are in the running. The winner of their game next Saturday will tie the Aggies for the circuit title.

Grid Season Concludes With Saturday Games

Thousands of eager-eyed fans were huddled in the stands to see the finale. And, just as it should have been, the excited onlookers were repaid with nerve-tangling clashes that went off like a gigantic fireworks display.

The top game of the day, so far as color, tradition, etc., are concerned, was unfolded in Municipal Stadium, Philadelphia, where Uncle Sam's service teams, the Navy and Army, exchanged grid wits. The Middies, spearheaded by New castle's "Bill" Chip and "Bill" Busik, coppered the 40th battle, 14-0, amid the thunder and roar of 102,000 persons.

Stanford Tops Bears

The climax of a movie-like yarn was enacted in Berkeley, Calif., where Stanford's Indians snatched the Pacific Coast Conference championship by moving down California, 13-7. In grabbing their ninth victory, Clark Shaughnessy's miraculously eleven ended the season with不出 blemish. In winning, however, Stanford was far from the team that crumpled one foe after another in past weeks.

In what proved to be easily the most thrilling tussle of the day and one of the most exciting tussles of the season, Pitt's Panthers dropped a heart-breaking 12-7 nod to Duke's Blue Devils. After spotting Duke 7 points, Pitt came back quickly and knotted the count. Before the half, Duke took the lead when Tony Buffa split the posts for a field goal.

Down the stretch, the Panthers engineered a drive that carried to the Duke 14. From this point, Pitt went to the three, then to the one. Kracum and Stetler were unable to pass the final chalk stripe. The goal line stand had the 22,000 fans on pins and needles.

Tennessee's Volunteers bagged another perfect season, their final one being Vanderbilt, 20-0. Despite rain and mud, the Vols looked formidable as they recorded their third straight unbroken and untied campaign. Their 1940 loss to Southern California in the Rose Bowl came off-season.

Boston College Wins

Boston College barely leaped the final barrier, the Eagles eking out a well-earned 7-0 margin over Holy Cross. Boston got all the breaks in the world to win. Most of the battle was waged in Boston territory. The triumph gave Boston a clean slate.

Mississippi State's maroon-jersied warriors rang up an undefeated season by blasting mighty Alabama, 13-0. State took a 7-0 lead in the opening period and then stayed off several second period scoring threats. A fourth quarter score cinched the battle.

Fordham mopped up Yankee Stadium's muddy sod with their neighborhood rivals, New York University, 26-0. After the game, the Rams immediately accepted a bid to play in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas. Southern Methodist poured on the power to blank Texas Christian, 16-0.

After taking a 12-0 lead in the opening period, Baylor folded up like a 10-cent accordion and dropped a 21-12 decision to Rice. Beaten four years in a row, Oregon unleashed an unstoppable assault to hayo Oregon State, 20-0. Louisiana State engineered one of the surprises by slapping a 14-0 loss on Tulane.

Nebraska Way Ahead

Nebraska got in line for a Rose Bowl invitation by drubbing Kansas State, 20-0. A loss to Minnesota is the only blot on the Cornhuskers' record. Auburn took advantage of a series of fumbles to whip Florida, 20-7. Unfolding a scoring blitzkrieg which netted 27 points in eight minutes, Washington trampled Washington State, 33-9. State held a 2-8 edge as the game moved into the fourth period.

Duquesne and Carnegie Tech staged their annual battle and what a battle it was! Tech snatched the lead in the opening minutes. Duquesne came back late in the stanza to deadlock matters. Denied a score in the waning seconds of the first half, the mighty Dukes struck in the third period. Thereafter, Tech put on a gallant defensive show.

Southern California finally found itself and managed to roll over UCLA, 28-12. It wasn't a startling feat since the Uclans were used as a punching bag by most foes. Georgia nosed out Georgia Tech, 10-7.

Is Football A Pigskin?

Is a football a pigskin? The answer: No. It has been over 25 years since a football bladder has been in anything that resembled a pigskin. The hide used in making grid covers comes of old nags. In other words, footballs are made from horse-hide and not pigskin.

Years ago, however, a pig's bladder constituted part of a football, thus the word "pigskin." The nickname stuck.

Nebraska May Meet Stanford In Rose Bowl

Minnesota Cannot Accept Bowl Bid; Tennessee To Battle Boston College

FORDHAM ACCEPTS COTTON BOWL BID

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The only post-season football game bringing together two major undefeated and untied teams will be played at New Orleans on New Year's day when Tennessee and Boston college tangle up in the Sugar Bowl. Both have finished their schedules with perfect records to establish themselves among the super-stalwarts of a year which has been a half dozen or more teams playing along briskly for a while only to falter finally.

One of the few other survivors is Stanford, which will pit its record of nine straight against Nebraska, beaten only by Minnesota, when the opening whistle is tooted in Pasadena's Rose Bowl. Minnesota also wound-up without having been even tied but can't enter into post-season competition due to Big Ten regulations.

Mississippi state will send a one-tied team into Miami's Orange Bowl to meet an opponent yet to be selected, while once-beaten Fordham will take on a once-beaten survivor of the Southwestern conference in the Dallas Cotton Bowl. Texas A. and M. has run through the slate with one defeat, and is the chief contender to face the Rams, although Southern Methodist and Rice are in the running. The winner of their game next Saturday will tie the Aggies for the circuit come-off season.

Boston College Wins

Boston College barely leaped the final barrier, the Eagles eking out a well earned 7-6 margin over Holy Cross. Boston got all the breaks in the world to win. Most of the battle was waged in Boston territory. The triumph gave Boston a clean slate.

Mississippi State's maroon-jerseyed players rang up an undefeated season by blasting mighty Alabama, 30-0. State took a 7-0 lead in the opening period and then staved off several second period scoring threats. A fourth quarter score clinched the battle.

Fordham mopped up Yankee stadium's muddy sod with their neighborhood rivals, New York University, 26-0. After the game, the Rams immediately accepted a bid to play in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas. Southern Methodist poured on the power to blank Texas Christian, 16-0.

After taking a 12-0 lead in the opening period, Baylor folded up like a 10-cent accordion and dropped a 21-12 decision to Rice. Beaten four years in a row, Oregon unleashed an unstoppable assault on Mayo Oregon State, 20-0. Louisiana State engineered one of the surprises by slapping a 14-0 loss on Tulane.

Nebraska Way Ahead

Nebraska got in line for a Rose Bowl invitation by drubbing Kansas State, 20-0. A loss to Minnesota is the only blot on the Cornhuskers' record. Auburn took advantage of a series of fumbles to whip Florida, 20-7. Unfolding a scoring blitzkrieg which netted 27 points in eight minutes, Washington State trounced Washington State, 33-0. State held a 9-5 edge as the game moved into the fourth period.

Duquesne and Carnegie Tech staged their annual battle and what a battle it was! Tech snatched the lead in the opening minutes. Duquesne came back late in the stanza to deadlock matters. Denied a score in the waning seconds of the first half, the mighty Dukes struck in the third period. Thereafter, Tech put on a gallant defensive show.

Southern California finally found itself and managed to roll over U.C.L.A., 26-12. It wasn't a startling fact since the Uclans were used as a punching bag by most foes. Georgia need out Georgia Tech,

Grid Season Concludes With Saturday Games

Thousands of eager-eyed fans were huddled in the stands to see the finales. And, just as it should have been the excited onlookers were repaid with nerve-tensing clashes that went off like a gigantic fireworks display.

The top game of the day, so far as color, tradition, etc., are concerned, was unfolded in Municipal Stadium, Philadelphia, where Uncle Sam's service teams, the Navy and Army, exchanged grid wits. The Middle, spearheaded by New Castle's "Bill" Chip and "Bill" Buick, copped the 40th battle, 14-6, amid the thunder and roar of 102,000 persons.

Stanford Tops Bears

The climax of a movie-like yarn was enacted in Berkeley, Calif., where Stanford's Indians matched the Pacific Coast Conference championship by mowing down California, 13-7. In grabbing their ninth victory, Clark Shaughnessy's miraculously eleven ended the season without a blemish. In winning, however, Stanford was far from the team that crumpled one foe after another in past weeks.

In what proved to be easily the most thrilling tussle of the day and one of the most exciting tiffs of the season, Pitt's Panthers dropped a heart-breaking 12-7 nod to Duke's Blue Devils. After spotting Duke 7 points, Pitt came back quickly and knotted the count. Before the half, Duke took the lead when Tony Ruffo split the posts for a field goal.

Down the stretch, the Panthers engineered a drive that carried to the Duke 14. From the point, Pitt went to the three, then to the one. Kracum and Stettler were unable to pass the final chalk stripe. The goal line stand had the 22,000 fans on pins and needles.

Tennessee's Volunteers bagged another perfect season, their final record being Vanderbilt, 20-0. Despite rain and mud, the Vols looked indomitable as they recorded their third straight unbeaten and untied campaign. Their 1940 loss to Southern California in the Rose Bowl came off-season.

VACATION HERE

Jack Hulme, former local man, who is trainer at Penn State College, where he went two years ago from Westminster College, is spending the Thanksgiving holiday period here with friends and relatives.

Jack is also well known for his prowess as a swimmer, having been swimming instructor at Westminster, and was formerly chairman of Life Saving for the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Years ago, however, a pig's bladder constituted part of a football, thus the word "pigskin." The nickname stuck.

TROPHIES ARRIVE FOR CHAMPIONS OF SOFTBALL LEAGUES

Sid Lockley, treasurer of the City Softball Association, announced today that the four trophies that the association has purchased for the champions in the various leagues have arrived and are now at the Gerson jewelry store.

The following managers are asked to contact Mr. Lockley at the city controller's office and get an order for their respective trophies. No trophies will be given out at the Gerson store without a written order from Mr. Lockley. The managers are: Radiator Works, Dundo Ambrose; Columbus A.C., Skip Russ; Golden Phoenix, Eddie Szwinksi; Arden Girls, Jimmy Germani.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—The Tennessee-Kentucky football game marked the fifteenth meeting of these two arch rivals since 1926, the year that Major Bob Neyland took over at the Volunteer institution. Tennessee has won 11 games, Kentucky 1, and there have been three tie games.

Some Modest Gains Are Made During Trading Of Early Morning

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The stock market gained a little ground today in an extension of the fair-sized rally on Saturday. A handful of issues were up a point or more at the morning's high, but gains generally were modest.

Steels were prominent throughout the morning, although Bethlehem slipped behind a minus sign after running up almost a point in the first few minutes of trading. U. S. Steel, Republic, Crucible and Youngstown Sheet & Tube all chalked up fair-sized gains.

DuPont stood out with an extreme advance of better than 2 points. Chrysler, Owens-Illinois Glass and J. I. Case were among the stocks to run up a point or more.

Improvement was more moderate in such representative issues as General Motors, Union Carbide, Kennecott, General Electric, Westinghouse, Sears Roebuck, N. Y. Central, American Locomotive, U. S. Rubber, Texas Corp., Consolidated Edison, American Tobacco "B" and American Telephone.

There were a few laggards, chiefly among the aircraft manufacturing shares, as Douglas and United Aircraft. Union Pacific, Montgomery Ward and Standard Oil of N. J. also were backward.

Some Modest Gains Are Made During Trading Of Early Morning

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The stock market gained a little ground today in an extension of the fair-sized rally on Saturday. A handful of issues were up a point or more at the morning's high, but gains generally were modest.

Steels were prominent throughout the morning, although Bethlehem slipped behind a minus sign after running up almost a point in the first few minutes of trading. U. S. Steel, Republic, Crucible and Youngstown Sheet & Tube all chalked up fair-sized gains.

DuPont stood out with an extreme advance of better than 2 points. Chrysler, Owens-Illinois Glass and J. I. Case were among the stocks to run up a point or more.

Improvement was more moderate in such representative issues as General Motors, Union Carbide, Kennecott, General Electric, Westinghouse, Sears Roebuck, N. Y. Central, American Locomotive, U. S. Rubber, Texas Corp., Consolidated Edison, American Tobacco "B" and American Telephone.

There were a few laggards, chiefly among the aircraft manufacturing shares, as Douglas and United Aircraft, Union Pacific, Montgomery Ward and Standard Oil of N. J., also were backward.
